

Plastic Surgeon - Bridgewater

About This Opportunity

Please find full posting information here.

South Shore Regional Hospital (SSRH) in Bridgewater, NS is seeking a plastic surgeon for a 12-month locum with the potential for a permanent position.

The position covers general plastic surgery including elective hand, skin cancer management and emergency department referrals including, among others, facial and hand trauma and minor burns. An interest in breast reduction surgery would be an asset.

Fully supported regular main OR and ambulatory clinic time is available in addition to an office with administrative support shared with the two other plastic surgeons. All overhead and administrative expenses are shared between the group.

Affiliation with Dalhousie University with an option to participate in research and surgical education at the undergraduate and postgraduate level is possible.

Located on the stunning South Shore in Nova Scotia, South Shore Regional Hospital was originally founded in 1988. It is a primary and secondary care hospital and designated district trauma centre with 85 inpatient beds including medical, surgical, intensive care, obstetrics, and mental health units. The modern regional hospital is the cornerstone of Bridgewater's residents and surrounding community members' quality of life.
